

Hello Friends,

Summer is in full swing with temperatures near 100, and no one is ordering anything - welcome to the beverage industry. We hope your business is doing well.

In February 2015, we told you about helping a school outside of Kathmandu, Nepal. The school was functioning but without any working bathrooms, so we agreed to help build one. Right after they began the work, a terrible earthquake struck the region (this was in the news for several weeks). Needless to say, our little structure was damaged. But as of this writing, they have completed the two-room toilet - that's the good news. The bad? The school was completely destroyed by the earthquake. We plan to step up and help with the rebuilding - see www.argonepal.org if you are interested. Sometimes the poor can't catch a break, and all my problems are first-world ones.

Thanks, Mark & staff
